

MICROSOFT CALLING: MAKING CALLS HAS NEVER BEEN EASIER

Most organizations have already taken their first steps towards a modern workplace, with flexibility at its heart. Employees want to be able to work where and when they want. However, the need for efficient communication solutions is only increasing.

Did you know that Microsoft Teams – already a perfect fit for a modern workplace – also offers a wide range of telephony options? These options make Teams a fully functional alternative to the traditional company switchboard.

You can also easily extend all these options with new applications tailored to your specific telephony requirements, no matter how advanced. From simple phone calls to video meetings and even a state-of-the-art contact center: a simple, intuitive interface delivers the same ease of use on any device. This allows everyone, from your maintenance staff to your CEO, to gain the maximum benefit from Teams' telephony functionality.

Of course, there's no need to stop our collaboration there. We are better placed than others right now to take your communication via Teams to the next level. We ensure that you can use other, more advanced communication tools, such as chat, social media and WhatsApp, in addition to standard phone telephony. We would be happy to add CRM integration to this omnichannel communication.

And then there's the Microsoft Power Platform. The applications we develop via this platform – tailored to meet needs such as on-call services and directories – help to round out the full-service telephony package. As the icing on the cake, we can also implement Microsoft Power BI, whether to give you a better understanding of your calling patterns or to measure the service level of your communication.
